Dear Mr. Archbold:

Re: Public Consultaion on Costing Manual – CD 2005-1 – ICTA/Telcordia
Second Round Interrogatory - Responses

Please find attached responses to a portion of the interrogatories issued on 16 April 2007 (ICTA/80/105/105-11).

In filing this partial response we make reference to our 16 May 2007 letter requesting an extension and staggered filing of the responses and your email approval of 17 May 2007. For ease of reference 49 of the seventy interrogatories were responded to on 17 May 2007 with a further twelve on 25 May.

As previously communicated, C&W had intended to submit responses to seven of the interrogatories in this third tranche today. However, because of delays in getting further information from Telcordia and/or our vendor, we have to push five of those responses back to our planned June 8th filing, when we were scheduled to deliver on the final two. We attach below the schedule we are operating towards.

Confidentiality Claim

Pursuant to Regulation 3 of the Information and Communications Technology Authority (Confidentiality) Regulations, 2003 (“Regulations”), C&W hereby requests that some of the information in this submission be designated “confidential”. This information consists primarily of confidential and highly sensitive cost information.

Further to Regulation 3(b), the information is commercial information, the details of which are treated consistently in a confidential manner by C&W and are not otherwise publicly available. C&W notes that this information on C&W costs appears in highly disaggregated and granular form. C&W treats such information as confidential, and does not release it to any persons other than those within the company who strictly need to know.

Further to Regulation 3(d)(i), disclosure of the cost information in this submission can reasonably be expected to result in significant financial loss to C&W, and significant financial gain to its competitors, if it were disclosed to the public. Disclosure would enable them to develop competitive and targeted marketing and pricing strategies, designed to “cherry-pick” customers in Cayman.

Further to Regulation 3(d)(ii), disclosure of the cost information can reasonably be expected to prejudice the competitive position of C&W. C&W notes that disclosure of the information would provide to C&W’s actual and potential competitors details of C&W’s cost structure. C&W’s competitors and potential competitors would use this information to create marketing strategies that would more effectively respond to C&W’s marketing and pricing strategies, which would significantly impair C&W’s competitive position in a highly competitive marketplace.
